

GETTING TO KNOW:

FMLA VS PFL

We've set them next to each other so you can see what Paid Family Leave (PFL) provides at the state level in New York and what's available to you federally via the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA).

WHERE DO LAWS APPLY?

At the FEDERAL level

Passed in 1993, FMLA was the first piece of federal legislation to protect time off for major health and family leave events like bonding with a newborn or caring for a seriously-ill family member. It provides up to 12 weeks of unpaid yet protected time off.¹

At the STATE level

PFL, passed in 2016, takes FMLA a step further by providing protected time off at partial pay in New York State beginning in 2018.²

WHAT BENEFITS DO I HAVE?

FMLA is UNPAID

Provides no monetary benefits¹

but FMLA does provide

JOB PROTECTION

All employees are entitled to return to their previous position, or its equivalent in pay and benefits

A salaried person in the employer's top 10% salary range and within 75 miles of the employer may be denied job restoration after FMLA leave if the restoration (not the absence) of the employee will cause substantial and grievous economic injury for the employer.

PFL is PAID

Provides 67% of the employee's Average Weekly Wage, capped at New York's AWW once fully implemented in 2021*

Begins at 50% of the AWW capped at 50% of New York's AWW in 2018.²*

and PFL also provides

JOB PROTECTION

All employees are entitled to return to their previous position, or its equivalent in pay and benefits

HOW MUCH TIME OFF CAN I RECEIVE?

FMLA provides up to

12 WEEKS

of total leave time*

in increments of

15 MINUTES

In a 12-month period.*

Depending on the employer's established policy for bonding and care this can be based on:³

(1) Calendar year; (2) Any fixed 12 months; (3) 12-month period measured from the first day of care; (4) A rolling 12-month period measured backward from the first day of care

For military caregiver leave, the 12-month period always begins on the first day the employee takes leave.

PFL provides up to

12 WEEKS

of total leave time*

in increments of

1 FULL DAY

In a consecutive 52-week period measured from the first day of leave*

Begins at 8 weeks in 2018, increases to 12 weeks when fully phased in in 2021.²

PFL EXPERT TIP

If you are entitled to both PFL and FMLA, they will run concurrently - this means that PFL time can't be added to FMLA time to extend the overall leave. Depending on your employer's leave policy, these leave periods may not line up directly, so check with your employer to find out how leave will work for your particular situation.³

"any" organization in the US

with

WHAT HAPPENS BEFORE I LEAVE?

30 DAY NOTICE

Employees must give 30-days notice for foreseeable leave for both FMLA and for PFL¹

DOES TAKING LEAVE AFFECT MY TIME OFF POLICIES?

Vacation and sick time accrual during leave happens at the

EMPLOYER'S DISCRETION

for both PFL and FMLA

The key is that all employees are treated equally when it comes to leave policies, and that the employer has a clear policy in place²

Under FMLA, employers have the option to require an employee to use their existing sick or vacation time while they are on leave

With PFL, employers cannot require an employee to use any of their sick or vacation time while they are on leave²

HOW DOES LEAVE AFFECT MY BENEFITS?

Health insurance is

✓ FMLA ---- MAINTAINED ---- ✓ PFL

at the

EMPLOYEE'S USUAL CONTRIBUTION AMOUNT as though not on leave

Employees also maintain rights to other benefits (Life, Dental, LTD, etc.)⁴

Even when maintained by an employer, benefit availability may vary from insurance policy to insurance policy³

Continuation of existing benefits while on FMLA depends on the employer's established policies, so that benefits that are maintained during PTO, for example, must also be maintained during FMLA leave time.*
